HIGH SCHOOL SERMON

REV. J. F. WATSON TELLS GRADUATES WHAT GRADUATION MEANS

Friends and relatives of the sixty-one graduates of the Union high school filled the large auditorium of the school to overflowing Sunday night when the graduating exercises of the week were opened by a carefully organized and excellently executed union service. All who took part in the service Sunday evening acquitted themselves in a manner worthy of the occasion. The high school orchestra played with great expression Schubert's "Ave Maria" as an opening number, then the Rev. C. Irving Mills, D. D., of St. Mark's Episcopal church, gave the invocation.

The services were presided over by Principal George U. Moyse.

After the combined glee clubs had sung "Evening" with much smoothness and harmony, the Rev. Bede A. Johnson of the First Methodist Episcopal church, at the request of the preacher of the evening, read II Kings 2, the story of the translation of Elijah and the consecration of Elisha to the work of the prophethood. Prayer was then offered by the Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the First Presbyterian church. The combined glee clubs then sang Haydn's "The Heavens Are Telling." This wonderful burst of praise from "Creation" was given with much sympathy and correct interpretation.

When the Rev. J. F. Watson, corresponding secretary of the Southern California Baptist convention, came forward to deliver the sermon of the evening he had the privilege of speaking to a most appreciative audience. Every seat in the large auditorium was full, the people were seated on chairs in the aisle, they were standing in every post of vantage and even out in the entrance hall chairs had been placed and every available seat was occupied. This large assembly was in the mood for receptive and profitable hearing and offered an unique opportunity to the orator of the evening.

Mr. Watson chose for his text II Kings, 11, 13, 14: "He took up also the mantle of Elijah that fell from him and went back and stood by the bank of Jordan; and he took the mantle of Elijah that fell from him and smote the waters and said, 'Where is the Lord God of Elijah?' And when he also had smitten the waters they parted hither and thither and Elisha went over."

In a few preliminary words the preacher expressed his pleasure at being in Southern California among friends who were a stimulus to him and who always gave him a welcome. Especially was he glad to have the privilege of speaking to the large and interesting graduating class that night. During the whole course of a class at school a process of selection was ever going on. Those who were fit were going to the front and those who were unfit to the rear. Every one was being tried, weighed in the balance. Year by year the process was going on. The grading continues year after year, diminishing as each one finds his or her own place. After graduation the process still continues with more searching effect and more definite results. Some go farther than others because of intensity of purpose. "Which of you," the speaker asked, "will be the first to drop out and shirk your grave responsibilities?"

Taking up his subject proper, the preacher said: "Elisha was an ambitious young man. He had doubtless been a dreamer of dreams like most boys and girls. He had been forward to entering into a larger life, when one day a remarkable man spoke to him and opened up to him larger prospects such as those of which he had been dreaming. He went to school with Elijah as a master. Now he was to be graduated. His master was about to leave him and he was to face the world alone. Before going forward to his own larger life in another world, Elijah said to his pupil, 'Ask what I shall do for thee, before I be taken away from thee.' And Elisha said, 'I pray thee let me have a double portion of thy spirit be upon me.' Elijah said, 'Thou hast asked a hard thing; nevertheless, if thou see me when I am taken from thee, it shall be so unto thee; but if not it shall be so.' God who multiplieth all gifts will multiply my spirit unto you according as you deserve. Here is the teacher and here is the pupil. Here is the master who has come to you tonight when the pupil must face the world alone and whatever else may be acquired must be acquired by the right of native genius with divine aid."

REID-PIERCE WEDDING

REV. B. A. JOHNSTON UNITES WELL-KNOWN GLENDALE COUPLE SATURDAY

Mr. Roy Glenn Pierce and Miss Sallie E. Reid were married Saturday, June 12, 1915, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Reid, 234 Cedar street. About forty-five relatives and friends were present to witness the taking of the marriage vows by these young people.

The front parlor where the ceremony was performed was decorated in green and white, carnations and ferns being used to carry out the color scheme. At the appointed hour, 8 o'clock, the bride and groom took their places under an arch of palms from which was suspended a green and white wedding bell, while a bank of ferns studded with white carnations formed a pretty background for the bridal party. The bride was attired in a charming gown of white charmeuse with an overdress of silk marquisette with pearl trimmings. The veil of silk marquisette which she wore enhanced her loveliness and an arm bouquet of brides roses completed the picture of a beautiful bride. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hilkey, Mrs. Hilkey wearing a white messaline gown, the groom and best man being attired in the usual black.

Rev. Bede A. Johnson of the First Methodist church officiated at the brief but impressive ceremony that joined the two, using the ring service, at the close of which the bride and groom knelt for the blessing. After all present had congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Pierce, the guests were summoned to the dining-room, which had been transformed into a bower of pink and green with ferns and Enchanted carnations.

Perhaps the greatest attraction was the huge bride's cake which reposed in the center of the table within a wreath of carnations. All were refreshed with punch and a light wedding repast, following which the bride donned her traveling suit and the young couple left by auto on a honeymoon trip to San Diego. On their return they will be at home to their friends at 234 Cedar street.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Burket Pierce and family of Pasadena, Mr. Thomas Pierce of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Owens of Los Angeles, Miss Grace Davis of Cucamonga and Miss Katherine Mellon of Arizona.

The groom is a son of Mrs. Maggie Pierce of 423 Orange Grove avenue and a young man of exemplary habits. His bride is the charming and accomplished young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reid.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome gifts, consisting of cut glass, silver, china and linen, a $500 check from her father being not the least of the many appreciated gifts.

ELKS' BIG DANCE

The leafy aisles of Verdugo park resounded to the strains of music and merry laughter Saturday evening when the Elks' drill team, the White Star Patrol, gave the first of a series of dances planned for the summer months at this popular resort.

A committee consisting of B. T. Anderson, Louis Kerri, W. C. Watters, Frank Beyea and Joe Fortunato had attended to every detail and all arrangements were complete. However, the attendance was far beyond expectations, about a hundred couples being present, and it was necessary for those in charge of the refreshments to make two expeditions to Glendale to replenish the stock.

Imes' orchestra of Los Angeles were tireless and the dance went merrily on from 8:15 to midnight. The drill team and especially the committee in charge are more than pleased with the result of the first dance and think this augurs well for the entire series.

ENTERTAIN EASTERN FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnston of 335 Everett street have been entertaining numerous eastern friends of late. Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Thurlow of Leroy, Iowa, who had been visiting here last week, left Monday morning for San Francisco to visit the exposition. Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Lord of Omaha, Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Weller of Long Beach were guests in the Johnston home Sunday. Dr. Lord is surgeon for the Union Pacific road.

Mrs. John G. Henry of Rockford, Ill., arrived here Sunday to make an extended visit at the Johnston home.

Many eastern people are visiting California this year and Glendale people are not slow to welcome their friends to this city and show them the beauties and advantages of Glendale as a city of homes, schools and churches.

A RED LETTER DAY FOR THE ENERGETIC

THE GLENDALE EVENING NEWS' GREAT $2000 AUTO AND PRIZE CONTEST IS ON—NOW IS THE TIME TO START—GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY FOR EVERY READER OF THIS PAPER

The Glendale Evening News' great $2000 contest is on. It started today. Mark this Monday in capital letters because it is a day of opportunity and to nearly a score of people of this vicinity it will mark the beginning of a day of fortune.

In this contest of wonderful values, opportunity and fortune are the chief characters. There needs to be only one more character to make the contest complete and you may be that person. You have the chance of making your own luck, your own fortune.

Opportunity is at the door knocking and upon the very summit of a mountain of value, the goddess of fortune salutes you today.

A trifle more than ten weeks from today The News will present the prize winners with the $850.00 Maxwell touring car, the $400.00 piano, the trips to the expositions, the $75.00 scholarships, the $50.00 deposit in the First National bank of Glendale—in fact, all the prizes that will make up its marvelous prize list.

The ten weeks will pass quickly. Time always does, and at the end what will you have?

To enter this contest is such an easy thing not to do, but it is so profitable to do. Between the doing and the not doing you will find the same difference as between the having and not having. And such a difference it is.

Never before in Glendale have such prizes as The News now offers been given away. In this contest you simply enter in a campaign of friendly rivalry with a few people in this community, where in a big metropolitan newspaper you would have to strive against the keen competition of hundreds from larger cities.

None of the prizes is at present won, and today, the very day the contest opens, is the day for the readers of this paper to accept the opportunity to enter this great free-for-all race.

The brightest word in the lexicon of this contest is "Now," and to start now is the easiest thing in the world to do. It costs you nothing, and you have everything to win, nothing to lose, you even get ten per cent commission on all new subscribers who secure if you don't win a prize.

But to get back to the subject of entering this contest. Just turn to page four of this issue and fill in the nomination blank, which will give you a start of 5000 votes when brought or sent to The News office.

As soon as you are nominated, see your friends, get them to subscribe for the Evening News at $4 a year, or the big eight-page weekly, the Tri-City Progress, which is brimful of local news at $1 per year. As soon as you obtain one subscription go after another, for subscriptions mean votes and votes mean the Maxwell auto, the $400 Schiller piano, a trip to the exposition or other prizes.

It doesn't take a person of a very vivid imagination to see the great possibilities the awards offer in this battle of ballots. Think of the wonderful profit that would be yours if you were to win the $850.00 Maxwell touring car, the $400.00 Schiller piano, the scholarships to the Isaac-Woodbury Business college, the $50 deposit at the First National bank of Glendale, a trip to either of the expositions, or any one of the other prizes to be announced later. And remember, if you do not win one of the many prizes offered, you get a ten per cent commission on every new subscription you turn in during the contest. You can't lose. Enter now.

SURPRISE PARTY

A very interesting and original farewell reception was given Friday night in the rooms of the West Glendale Methodist Episcopal Epworth League, at the church. The reception was in the nature of a surprise party. The members of the Epworth League, knowing that Miss Lily Smith, vice-president of the Epworth League, is leaving Tuesday for Vermont, that Miss Sarah Taggart, president of the Ladies' Aid, is leaving Tuesday for Indiana, and that Mrs. Mabel Cadd, secretary of the Home Missionary society, in company with her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Cadd, is leaving Tuesday for Jefferson, Iowa, resolved to show their appreciation of the disinterested and efficient services of those ladies.

Yesterday evening the ladies mentioned were invited out for an automobile drive and after a short spin, were brought to the church where the party awaited them. The rooms were decorated with the Epworth League colors, refreshments were served, complimentary speeches made, and music enlivened the very pleasant evening.

ELKS HOLD BARBECUE

With the usual accompaniment of merriment and good nature, the best people on earth, the Elks, celebrated with a barbecue and picnic Sunday at Pasadena. About 300 of the brethren and their friends went from Glendale and there were altogether more than a thousand present. Mr. John Roman and Mr. R. M. Jackson had charge of the Glendale contingent and Mr. Harry Hall officiated for Pasadena.

The barbecue and games were held on the Chapman ranch. Those who know this old ranch, with its spreading oak trees and wild flowers, its cozy nooks and beautiful level stretches, know how suitable it is for such a gathering. There were the usual games, contests, rodeo and stage coach. The Pasadena band made all pleasant with eloquent music, and the benevolent brethren by various devices were able to collect about $3000 for charity.

BAND CONCERTS

The first of a series of band concerts to be given by the Glendale municipal band will be given Thursday evening in front of the city hall, beginning at 8 o'clock. These concerts are to be given every two weeks. The second one will be given in front of the Pacific Electric station unless a municipal bandstand shall have been constructed before that date. As soon as a bandstand has been constructed, the concerts will be held at the location of the bandstand.

TROPICO

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Miller of Ridgeley, Tenn., who visited their sons, Claude and Verne Robinson of Park avenue and Brand boulevard several months ago and who when they returned to their southern home were told that after visiting Southern California their Tennessee home would hold but little attraction for them, have returned to Tropico and will reside here permanently. Mr. and Mrs. Miller and sons have leased Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Milligan's home on Park avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Milligan have taken up their residence at 414 East Cypress street.

Rev. and Mrs. George A. Osman, Mrs. Fanny Laurence, Miss Carrie Griswold and Mr. E. L. Hewitt of Rutland, Vt., and Miss Cora Laurence of Marlborough, N. Y., who are the guests of Mrs. Frank L. Marsh, returned Saturday evening from San Diego, where they spent several days very pleasantly. Rev. and Mrs. Osman were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Webster. Following services in the Christian Advent church of Los Angeles, where Rev. Osman delivered the morning sermon, Mr. and Mrs. Webster, with their guests, motored to Pasadena, where they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Sherman.

Following a most delightful visit of several weeks as the guests of their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George N. Lunn of South Glendale avenue, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Lunn of Greenville, Mich., left for San Francisco, where they will visit the exposition and later other points of interest in the North before returning to their home in Michigan.

The Tropico Tuesday Auction Bridge Luncheon club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Harry Coleman of Pasadena tomorrow. Mrs. Coleman is a recently elected member of this exclusive card club.

Mrs. Charles A. Barker and son, Raymond Barker, motored to Walnut Park Sunday, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John MacNeill at their ranch home. Mrs. Barker and son were neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. MacNeill when each family were residents of Chicago.

Mrs. E. D. Welton of Los Angeles was the over-Sunday guest of her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Hal H. Davenport of South Glendale avenue, this city.

Mrs. W. S. Fleming of Topeka, Kans., who has been the house guest of her daughter, Mrs. Leigh Bancroft of South Brand boulevard, is at present visiting another daughter in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clanin are rejoicing over the arrival of a fine bouncing ten and a half-pound boy at their home, 1546 West Colorado the latter part of last week.

SABBATH IN GLENDALE

SUNDAY SERVICES AT VARIOUS HOUSES OF WORSHIP IN GLENDALE

PRESBYTERIAN MEETING

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Glendale Presbyterian church will meet on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at the church. The members of the executive board will meet at 1 o'clock. Miss Moore, a missionary to the Navajo Indians, will be the speaker of the afternoon. She will also have on display some silver work of the Navajos. A cordial welcome awaits all who will attend.

The members are especially urged to be present, as plans are to be made for a welcome meeting for our own missionary, Miss Helen Smith of Soochow, China, who is coming home early in July for a short visit.

ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH

The program of Children's Day in Saturday's News of the English Lutheran Sunday school was carried out quite in full. The service and decorations were pronounced the best the school ever had. All the little folks in singing and speaking were a credit to the school and the interest of those who had them in training. It only demonstrated what could be done.

The address of Rev. Boyer, missionary-elect to British Guiana, South America, was of a high order, interesting and instructive. It was a blessing to have heard it. One practical result will be the formation of a children's choir to sing at the morning services going into training at once for it to appear next Sunday for the first time. The young congregation was encouraged by the addition of new members. And still they come, glad for their loyalty and faithfulness. May others of the household of Luther within the community avail themselves of the opportunity of putting themselves in the front line of our Lutheran work.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. John Hunter of the Bible Institute preached at this church Sunday, having for his topic, "Two Kinds of Christians." The authority upon which he made this division was based upon the epistle of Paul to the Romans, eighth chapter, in which he addressed the Christians who were "spiritually minded" and upon his letter to the Corinthians, that portion of the third chapter in which the Christians of that church were told that the apostle could not write to them as to the "spiritual," but as to the "carnal" minded. In attempting to pass judgment as to who may belong to one of these classes and who to the other, we must first judge ourselves. Are we sure that we belong to the class of Christians that is spiritual? How dear is the infant to the parent who holds it in his arms and what more sad than that the body of that infant should become developed without the development of the mind. So it is with the Christian, substituting spirit for mind.

There was jealousy in the church at Corinth; one boasted that he was of Paul, another of Apollo and yet another that he was a follower of Peter. And is the same spirit not too often manifest among Christians today. The early apostles had gifts of tongues and gifts of healing, but these did not necessarily accompany or indicate possession of the gift of spirituality. How can we pass from the carnal to the spiritual is the important question. We must confess that we are carnally minded and repent; must ask God for grace and forgiveness; surrender ourselves to him and ask for the gift of the Holy Spirit!

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Having had many requests from people outside of the church for further light on the subject of Christian union, as taught by the disciples, Mr. Francis again took up this topic Sunday morning.

That the prayer of Jesus for the "oneness" of his followers and the "one Lord, one faith, one baptism," means specific union and not federation, is so obvious that it should never be a source of controversy and yet Christians of other churches seem slow to accept it in its full significance, and their ministers sometimes seem inclined to the idea that a difference in name, creed and form of worship is desirable, rather than otherwise. The Christian world however, is gradually approaching the time when a decisive step will have to be made and when that time comes there will be no chance for a hanging-back.

The version of creeds, the modification of ideas of Calvinism, and the

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

BELLIGERENT JITNEY DRIVER DEMANDS JURY TRIAL—E. F. GANAHL INJURED

Judge Whomes had before him this morning the most serious case of assault he has had for some time, when J. W. Lawson, a jitney driver on the route from Hollywood to Universal City, was arraigned on a charge of having struck Ernest F. Ganahl of the Glendale Mills. It seems that Mr. Ganahl was entrusted with the serving of a summons on Lawson, who owed the Glendale Mills a sum of money.

Lawson took umbrage either at the manner of serving or at the fact that any attempt was made to collect the debt. He expressed his disapproval of the attempt to bring him to book by striking young Ganahl in the face and giving him a black eye. Not satisfied with this protest against the process of law, he picked up a large stone and managed to inflict another serious wound on Ganahl's head. He then further crippled the young man by throwing the stone at him and injuring his leg.

Lawson, who was not represented by an attorney, listened to the enumeration of his acts of assault and then demanded a jury trial. Judge Whomes released him on his own recognizance and it is likely that the case will go to trial Monday. On account of the serious nature of the offense it may be necessary to call in the district attorney.

PASTORAL PLAY

"The Piper," the famous prize American play, is to be given as a pastoral under the rock in Eagle Rock park Tuesday evening by the seniors of Cumnock school. The performance will be in charge of Miss Willamene Wilkes, who has given years of study both in America and in London to the newest and most artistic methods of stage scenic effects and dramatic management.

The location is ideally beautiful and easily accessible, both on the street cars and by automobile. The young women and others who are to take the leading parts are exceptionally talented and highly trained. The play will be given at 8 o'clock. Admission fifty cents.

LITERATEURS TO DINE

What promises to be both an interesting and entertaining banquet will be given tomorrow by the members of the literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club. The members of that learned body will hold their annual banquet at the home of Mrs. E. H. Willisford tomorrow at 1 p. m.

MRS. WHEELER ENTERTAINS

A party of young maids and matrons from Los Angeles, Burbank and Glendale were entertained on Saturday afternoon by Mrs. W. L. Wheeler, assisted by her mother, Mrs. M. O. Ryan, at the home of the latter in the Monte Vista apartments on Hawthorne street. The rooms were resplendent in white and gold flowers and the same color scheme was carried out in the score cards, confections and refreshments.

The game was five hundred and the honors were carried off by Miss Emily Ellias and Mrs. Eugene Hart. Vocal and instrumental numbers by Mrs. Eugene Hart, Mrs. John Allen Legge, Miss Hazel Wheatley and Mrs. W. L. Wheeler added much to the afternoon's pleasure.

Those invited to enjoy this delightful occasion were Mesdames C. E. Davison, Eugene Hart, Geo. Warner, Paul Griffith, Gus Pulliam, W. S. Althouse, John Allen Legge and the Misses Mildred McKay, Anna Woodbury, Hazel Wheatley, Emily Ellias and Lillian Ellias.

uniting in evangelical and philanthropic work, is some of the heaven which will gradually leaven the whole lump, until we are all "one" in reality and then "shall the world believe that thou hast sent me."

The men's class had thirty-seven present at Bible school to thirty-five in the women's, and won two points Sunday. It will be necessary for them to win every point in the next week, however, for the contest closes this month.

The deferred banquet given by the men's to the women's class will be held this evening at the bungalow, beginning promptly at 7 o'clock. Every member of these classes is invited and expected to be present. A delightful season of fellowship is looked for.

The prayer meeting subject on Wednesday evening is a very important one and will no doubt arouse a deep interest. It is "Why Pray?" It will be led by Mrs. D. R. Dungan.

OUTLOOK IN CASA VERDUGO

Casa Verdugo is a good neighbor to Glendale; therefore Glendale takes a friendly interest in all that concerns that community. In times not so very far past Casa Verdugo has even contemplated union with Glendale and Glendale was by no means averse to the suggestion. The friendship between the two places led to Casa Verdugo's employing Glendale's lighting department to install her electric lighting system and to supply the light. There is a further tie between the two places in that their water supply comes from the same hills. In short, the two places have so few points of separation that they really are one in sentiment and intercourse.

Glendale admires Casa Verdugo; it admires its people, who are intelligent, clear-thinking, generous, kindly and well-to-do. Quite a deal of valuable trade comes to Glendale from the sister community and adds in no small measure to the friendly feelings between the two communities. Casa Verdugo's credit is good in Glendale, the merchants of which appreciate the patronage they have received in the past and hope to profit by it in the future.

Looking at conditions in Casa Verdugo, Glendale would find hope that peace and harmony may prevail where now there is somewhat of a division. Just as the presence of a large body in the heavens exercises an appreciable effect, sometimes disturbing, on neighboring bodies, so the proximity of a large city often disturbs neighboring and smaller communities.

It may be that Casa Verdugo is feeling to a certain extent the preponderant influence of Los Angeles and is divided in her councils because of the prestige and power of that growing and powerful city. Residents in the smaller community should remember, however, that nothing compensates for the loss of harmony and unity. Metropolitan connections and metropolitan status can never compensate for division, dispeace and the mutual hatreds that communal strife inevitably engenders.

If Casa Verdugo desires to join Los Angeles, good and well. The good wishes of Glendale will go with her, just as the good wishes of Glendale are with Los Angeles at present. If on the other hand, Casa Verdugo should elect to join with Glendale, she would receive here a most hearty welcome. There is room enough in California for communities of all kinds. Each can work out its own salvation without fear of endangering any other; and if Casa Verdugo should ever become part of the great city, she would doubtless find advantage to herself before joining.

Meantime, as a friendly neighbor Glendale desires to see peace and harmony prevail where just now there is every danger of division and division.

MISUSE OF THE AMERICAN FLAG

To trick the enemy by some clever ruse has always been considered fair in war. Especially has this been the case in ocean warfare. History abounds in examples of belligerents flying neutral flags to deceive the watchful foe. One of the clever German commerce-destroying cruisers, shortly before its destruction in a gallant encounter, successfully put in practice such a ruse when disguised with an extra dummy funnel and flying the Japanese flag she steamed boldly into Shanghai roads and destroyed British shipping there.

The British have not been slow to follow the old practice and it will be remembered that the Lusitania, last February, sailed through a German blockade flying the Stars and Stripes. That exploit evoked emphatic protest from President Wilson, who addressed a special note on the subject to the British government.

It will also be remembered that the British, while pointing out that American vessels had on various occasions adopted a similar ruse, indicated that they would put an end to the employment of such a trick in the future. Now comes the news that the British steamer Colonian, of the Leyland line, flew the American flag for forty hours as protection against German submarines while passing through the war zone. The captain of the Colonian states that a British patrol vessel ordered him to fly a neutral flag or no flag at all, and that he used the American flag, because, if hailed by a hostile submarine he would excite no suspicion by answering in English.

There can be but one opinion regarding this deception. Conditions have altered greatly in ocean warfare during the period that has elapsed since international warfare included the Atlantic in its area of operations. The seas are full of the commerce of all nations, neutral and belligerent. American commerce and passenger traffic crosses and recrosses the Atlantic in the very path of the deadly submarines; and there is not the slightest doubt that the employment of the American flag to delude the German sea raiders would ultimately result in serious danger to American trade and to the lives of American citizens. Once let the Germans arrive at the conclusion that British vessels are in the habit of thus misusing the American flag, and they will sink without discrimination all vessels that sail under that sacred emblem.

There should be no hesitation on the part of President Wilson in protesting vigorously and effectively against this reprehensible practice. That he will do so cannot be doubted. The president has already shown that he will leave no effort unapplied to defend American interests on the ocean against the belligerents, who have shown a cynical indifference to neutral rights on the high seas.

In whatever measures President Wilson may see fit to take to put an end to this abuse of the American flag, he will have the united support of the nation which has viewed this practice with strong resentment. The British are only too apt to consider the seas as their own private possession and it is time that the neutral nations, in conjunction with the United States, should join to free the oceans of the world from such obsession.

HOW TO CELEBRATE THE FOURTH

Now that the glorious Fourth is close at hand, it might be well for Glendale to take counsel as to how that memorable anniversary should be celebrated. A sane and sensible Fourth is most desirable, but in the desire to get such a day, it is surely not necessary to desert one's own city and one's own friends and celebrate the great patriotic event among strangers and in surroundings that might not be congenial or even safe.

Too many well-meaning citizens seek on holiday occasions to escape from the sameness of the every-day local atmosphere and in so doing run up against undesirable elements. At home, amid friends, away from temptations, impure water, impure drinks of all kinds, there should be enough attraction to satisfy the patriotic souls of all local Americans.

There are many among us who are able to go whithersoever they please and probably as many who are not able; if all joined together in a sensible and well organized local celebration, say in Verdugo park, there would certainly be both pleasure and profit for all. Verdugo park is unexcelled for a celebration of this kind. Can anyone conceive any place more beautiful or any place more fitted by nature for a community picnic? Its situation is all that can be desired. It is close to the city and for those who are not able to walk, ride or otherwise get to the park by their own conveyance, there is a convenient and reasonably cheap car service.

It may be suggested without appearing to dictate that a committee of citizens should get together, consult the city officials and the local dignitaries of all kinds, arrange for speakers of prominence, appoint parties to arrange about the park, and about getting it decorated, lighted and appropriately fixed up in honor of the great day.

In Verdugo park are all conveniences for parties desiring to picnic. They can bring their own provisions and be furnished on the spot with tea, coffee and other beverages. A large and representative committee of citizens should be able to make provision for music, carefully guarded fireworks and whatever other entertainment may be needed to make the Fourth this year an event memorable in the annals of the city. It has been asserted that the old Fourth spirit is dying out. That is by no means the case. A new spirit is growing up, a saner and more sensible spirit, and it is the duty of all loyal citizens to enshrine the Fourth in that spirit that the rising generation may cling to it as a glorious inspiration just as past generations have done.

ELIMINATION OF LAND

On June 9 the president signed a proclamation eliminating approximately 85,000 acres of land from the Santa Barbara national forest, California.

This elimination was recommended by the Secretary of Agriculture after careful examination of the lands in question had been made by the forest service. A large portion of the lands now eliminated has already been acquired by private parties either before their inclusion in the national forest or through the forest homestead law. The alienated areas, of course, include most of the best land. The areas which still remain in government ownership are semi-arid, brush-covered lands of little value for grazing and agricultural purposes, but of practically no value for forest purposes.

This elimination was recommended by the Secretary of Agriculture after careful examination of the lands in question had been made by the forest service. The action is similar to that taken recently on the adjoining Sierra national forest, where a considerable area was eliminated, and it follows out the general policy of the forest service to eliminate as rapidly as possible from all national forests such land as are found to be chiefly valuable for agricultural purposes.

A large portion of the lands now eliminated from the Sequoia forest has already been acquired by private parties, either before their inclusion in the national forest or through the forest homestead act. The alienated area, of course, includes most of the best agricultural land. The areas which still remain government land were found to be generally more valuable for agriculture and grazing than for forest purposes and their elimination was accordingly recommended.

"DAVID HARUM" AT THE PALACE GRAND TONIGHT

Tonight and Tuesday "David Harum" is the film feature at the Palace Grand. Wm. H. Crane, the distinguished star, makes his first appearance in motion pictures in a film version of his famous stage success.

David Harum is one of the quaintest and noblest character studies ever contributed to the stage. In the role of the old country banker, an eccentric and somewhat illiterate character, but possessing an amazing amount of knowledge not found in printed books, Mr. Crane repeats and even surpasses the charm of his original stage impersonation in the film version of the drama.

CO-OPERATION IN CALIFORNIA SOIL SURVEYS

The California agricultural experiment station is co-operating this season with the United States department of agriculture in soil surveys of detailed areas around Pasadena and San Bernardino and reconnaissance work in the San Diego region. After the work in these areas has been completed, the parties will take up detailed surveys in the Russian river valley and the Honey lake district and reconnaissance work in the San Joaquin valley. Four men from the station and four from the federal department have been assigned to the work. Under the co-operative arrangement adopted for these soil surveys each pays the salaries and expenses of its own men, while the federal government bears the expense of inspecting the work and publishing the report for each county.

ADDRESS TO THE FLAG

Oh, banner beautiful and fair,
What other can with thee compare?
Whence cometh thy mysterious power,
So potent in each trying hour?
At thy command they marched away,
Those armies anxious for the fray;
The hills to lurid flame awoke,
The valleys dark and dense with smoke.
What hosts were slain that men might be
At awful cost—exalted, free?
Oh, banner, emblem fair, of peace,
Proclaim that savage war shall cease.
All powerful on the battlefield,
To quiet, mild conditions yield.
From humblest school to highest grade,
Be thy omnipotence displayed;
Till every child the country o'er
Shall enter free on the ground floor,
With equal openings to advance,
Till none shall say, "I had no chance."

Thy power exert 'till there shall be
In realm of thought great liberty;
Nor for a moment tolerate
The slightest join of church and state.
Float thou from spire and minaret,
Nor let a devotee forget
That any general favor he
Demands he must accord to me.
Thy broad folds never fold until
Each one shall worship as he will.
Oh, banner make thy power home
At pinnacle of lofty dome,
Of capital at Washington
And order legislation done.
In house and senate hall,
Just, equal and exact to all.
Hang thou around the court supreme
And forcefully enforce the theme
That high and humble, rich and poor,
To justice there can find the door.

Oh, flag of power, that power is due
To men that gave their lives for you.
You led them where in ranks they fell,
Mown down by shrieking shot and shell.
They followed 'till they conquered peace,
And bade the noise of battle cease.
A fading remnant loves you yet,
And you will not their love forget.
For you what service more complete
Than form a soldier's winding sheet.

ON TRAIL OF THE GANG

Chief Herald and his officers are hot on the trail of a supposed gang of thieves who have been operating along the route of the Glendale and Montrose railway. Several of the gang have been rounded up. Garcia, Tomez and Sylvester are already under practical arrest and Louis Rodriguez, who was arrested Saturday, was arraigned today before Judge Whomes.

Rodriguez was operating on the Glendale-Montrose railway Saturday and had made quite a haul of copper wire. This wire was the large three-strand copper feed cable that is used for conveying electricity on the road. Rodriguez had cut up the cable into foot lengths and concealed them in gunny sacks. He had several sacks and with extraordinary impudence was conveying them to town on the

When arraigned this morning before Judge Whomes Rodriguez stated that he had found the wire buried in the sand of the wash. The judge remanded him until further light could be cast on the proceedings of the supposed gang. Some of this gang are in Pasadena and an officer has been sent to arrest them.

WORLD CONFERENCE PRESIDENT

(By Frank A. Coffin)

PACIFIC UNION COLLEGE (St. Helena), June 14 (Special).—Elder A. G. Daniels, president of the general or world conference of the Seventh-day Adventists, arrived here at noon Thursday to attend the national educational and young people's council of the Seventh-day Adventists. He returned from the Orient last Monday morning on the steamer Chinyo Maru, and was met by Elder E. E. Andross, president of the Pacific union conference, and Elder E. W. Farnsworth, vice-president of the union.

Elder Daniels left for Australia a year ago, visiting that country and the islands of the South Pacific, India, Burma, China and Japan. It was his purpose to go through Europe, attending a large conference which was to have been held near Berlin, Germany. The war prevented the holding of this large and representative meeting, so the world president spent the time visiting the most of the Adventist mission stations in Asia, with the exception of Asiatic Russia. Coming in contact as he has with war conditions in the great Asiatic field, and having been in close touch with the rapidly growing missionary activities of the Seventh-day Adventists in the great heathen world his addresses to the educators of the denomination are expected to be of most intense interest. He has stood his trip well, although during the entire year he has been under constant and heavy pressure with the large responsibilities devolving upon him.

An aggressive and continued campaign for nation-wide prohibition was determined upon by the delegates to the council yesterday, a resolution to that effect being passed unanimously. This calls attention to the degrading effect of the sale and use of liquor, and states the conviction of the delegates that lower taxes come with absolute prohibition of the manufacture or sale of intoxicants. The resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, Intoxicating liquor is one of the greatest crime promoters in America, being responsible for a large share of all murders, brawls, wife-beatings, divorces, accidents and business failures, filling our courts with criminal cases, our jails with prisoners, our hospitals and infirmaries with patients, our orphanages with homeless children, and our insane asylums with inmates, and

"Whereas, Alcohol is a poison whose use weakens men and women physically, mentally and morally, unfitting them for parenthood or married life, and whose manufacture and sale corrupts politics, pauperizes the purchaser and his family, and degrades brewer, saloon owner and bartender, besides encouraging all forms of unmentionable vice, and

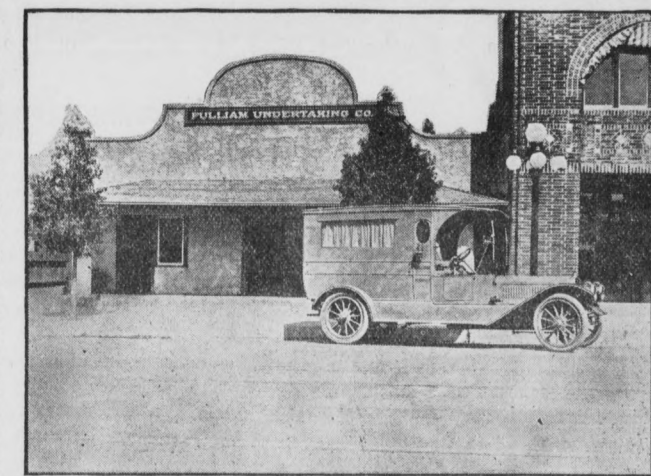

"Whereas, Experience has demonstrated that better business conditions and lower taxes come with prohibition, therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the representatives of the educational and young people's missionary volunteer departments of the Seventh-day adventist denomination, in convention assembled, hereby protest most emphatically against the legalized manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor in the nation, and that we pledge ourselves by voice, pen and vote, and through the circulation of good literature upon the subject, to wage an aggressive campaign throughout the land in an earnest endeavor to halt the awful liquor curse. To this end we invite the hearty co-operation of all good citizens."

The heart-to-heart talks on teaching, given every morning by Elder I. H. Evans, president of the North American division conference, are proving of much interest to the delegates. "Spiritual Life of the Teacher," was the topic yesterday morning.

"The Home School," conducted as a branch of the Fireside Correspondence school, by Prof. C. C. Lewis, was given consideration before the council. Prof. Lewis told of the manner in which Adventist mothers are being assisted to give instruction to their

RECORD BREAKING RUN

SAN DIEGO, June 14.—Breaking records on a trans-continental auto run, E. G. Baker, who was started from the San Diego exposition by Exposition President G. A. Davidson, has reached New York City, end of his gruelling race against Father Time. Driving a Stutz "Bear Cat," Baker made the run from the Exposition to New York City in 11 days, 7 hours and 15 minutes. The run logged 3,728 miles. Baker shattered his own record made on a motorcycle last year when he covered by another route a distance of 3,378 miles in 11 days, 12 hours, and 10 minutes. In the run just concluded Baker demonstrated that the automobile is faster in trans-continental driving than the motorcycle. The car used by Baker was a stock model, the only extra equipment carried being a shovel and block and tackle. The drive was remarkable in that there were several days of hard rains enroute and yet no mishap resulted. Accompanying Baker was W. F. Strum, a newspaper man, but Baker piloted the car the entire distance.

Baker's drive furnished convincing proof in the east that touring to California can be accomplished without hardships. Although a motor tourist would not care to drive as fast as Baker did, the time he made shows that New York City is not so far from the Pacific coast by automobile after all. Baker's trip undoubtedly will encourage motor car travel, already heavy, from the east to California. Of the organized tours to move across the country from the Atlantic seaboard the first will start from New York City June 15. This is the initial trans-continental tour conducted by the National Highways association which during this summer will hold several under its auspices. All will be to California. On the first tour A. L. Westgard, veteran pathfinder, will be at the head of the party, which will tour the entire state, that the motorists may see both exhibitions and points of interest.

"The fundamental elements of education," the speaker said, "are giving, receiving and applying. If you are to have anything of value to fit you for life, you must first have a proper teacher to give it to you. Elisha went to the best school of his age and to the best master—Elijah.

Essential elements of success in education are a proper teacher and a willing pupil. A good teacher plus an apt pupil equals efficiency.

"Teachers need sympathy. This business of standing up five days in the week before an exacting class of pupils and imparting to them knowledge is one of the most wearing-out tasks in this world. To prepare a class for a life's career is a task that demand patience, strength, skill and equipment. It also demands your sympathy and co-operation. It is a task in which the parents should co-operate. It is a community task.

"You often hear people making use of that old proverb, 'The world owes me a living.' That is the philosophy of a tramp, of a vagabond; it is unworthy of recognition. It can only be applicable when the individual says 'If the world owes me a living, I owe it a life.' The man who has given his life to his country and undertaken the hardships and dangers of the battlefield or the ocean may with right expect that country to provide for him. So if you are to get anything from the world you must give the world service.

"Again, education prepares us for life's activities. We call this graduation period 'commencement.' It may seem a strange word to use; yet it is a most appropriate one. This graduation is to you merely the beginning of your education. It is the commencement of living and observing. Now you are giving direction to your path and all that you have learned in school is of value only in so far as it enables you to give direction to life's forces; to turn your superior strength and skill into channels at once practical and beneficial.

"Modern teaching differs in much from the teaching of the old school. The old method was one of insistent command. 'Learn, learn' without any attempt to show how to learn. Modern teaching shows us how to learn and how to apply our learning to life. I believe in individuality. I believe in individuality also rather than in efficiency. In Germany we see the result of a species of training that goes to produce wonderful efficiency; but in the course of that training individuality is lost sight of. A machine is capable of much greater accuracy and efficiency than a man in certain things, but man is not a machine and any system of education that tends to reduce man to the status of a machine is on the wrong track. I hope never to see Germany's efficiency in the United States. Democracy forbids it. Schools must not aim at moulding men to one pattern. God loves individuality and honors personality. Of course everybody must be efficient. I believe in that. I also believe, however, that such efficiency must arise out of the sense of higher duty in individuals that leads them to apply themselves to the work before them with every energy of mind and body and that leads them to fit themselves for the work before them.

"Again, at graduation the graduate has come to a point where he or she must face the world alone. Teachers are gone; the school is gone, and the pupil stands facing the future without any other guide save what has been acquired in the years of training. Your diploma is merely a receipt for work done; your training is the capital with which you must make your way. You have now the right and the ability to make a choice. It was said by an American of high standing, 'I believe in an American's right to play the fool if he wants to play the fool.' He meant that individuals can be trusted to do what is best if they have had the right training. That is your birthright. You, if your training has been of any value, are able to take on yourselves the responsibility of trying to do your best."

The speaker then strongly advised the graduates to go forward to a higher education and advocated the smaller colleges as most profitable to the student because of the personal contact to be had there with the teachers.

"Where is the Lord God of Elijah?" That said the speaker was the first question of Elisha when he entered on his career in the world. It is essential that those who are to face the world should in similar comprehension of the overlordship of divine providence in this world ask a similar question.

"The graduate in facing the world for the first time alone must face it praying and seeking divine guidance. If you leave God out of your program your life will become a wreck. Ask God to manifest himself to you.

"You are now accepting responsibility and entering the great arena with crowds of others who will give you the most severe kind of competition in the race of life. You must understand the importance of establishing at the very outset of your career right social, moral, professional, commercial and religious connections. What you decide now will influence what you will become. You may not have chosen a profession or a calling; do so at once. Be not like Micawber, always looking for something to turn up. Any life that is moving in the right course may expect difficulties in the way, but when they do present themselves they will vanish immediately simply because of the proper arrangement of your life's course.

"Ask yourself, 'What do my responsibilities demand of me?' Elisha when asked by Elijah what he wanted, made demand for that which seemed almost an impossibility; but because he did so he was strengthening himself and making it possible for him to achieve what he wanted.

"Your knowledge will open to you wide fields for speculation and experiment. A well-balanced mind confronted with the many things that are to be learned probes them, examines them, experiments with them. Prove all things. There is no truth that will not stand any test. The acid test, the test of fire—nothing can harm it, if it is the truth. No moral or religious truth need fear examination or testing of any kind. You have two arts of your education before you—knowing things and knowing God. The first comprises all the things which are apart from the great personality of God such as literature, arts, science, philosophy. These are practical things, useful things, things that you can touch and analyze. Above them and including them is the knowledge of God. The more you have of the second, the more you will have of the first. God expresses himself to us through these things.

"The knowledge of God is deeper and more mysterious than the knowledge of things. We know Him because of the life that has radiated from Him; because of the wonderful spirit that is ever moving and influencing our lives. We know God just as we love one another. We love one another not by text-books, not by things that come through the ordinary channels of life. So we know God through the spirit. God takes hold of life; takes hold of destiny.

"In the end, we must all return to the simplicity of the child's love; to the simplicity and purity of the soul that perceives that God is our father and approaches him in the simplicity of that spirit. Learning, place, power, all that the world can give you as a reward for what you have learned here and have applied so as to benefit it, fades into nothingness before the reality of the relation of the human soul to the divine fatherhood. When our learning has been consecrated in this direction it has achieved its end."

LEATHER MEDALS

Leather medals were originally conferred as a genuine mark of honor. When King John of France, captured at Agincourt, was forced to pay to Edward III. of England a ransom of 3,000,000 gold crowns to effect his release he was left without precious metal for coins or decorations.

tions. So he found it necessary to pay the palace expenses with leather money. He also used leather medals when he wished to confer honor on some nobleman. The custom quickly arose of presenting leather medals as a burlesque distinction. —American Boy.

The youth of our nation should not be reared with the idea that it is glorious to slay their fellow-men in warfare.
